Rhi: [00:00:00] Oh, hi everyone. I'm Rhi. And this is my friend Ted.

Ted: Hi, everyone.

Rhi: Ted is a bit upset today because someone found his secret stash of candy and stole it.

Ted: Oh, not just someone. I'm sure it was Carl, I should've kept it safer.

I know! I'm going to get a box with a lock and a password that no one will be able to steal my precious candy.

Rhi: Oh. You can have some of mine.

Ted: Thanks Rhi. That's really nice of you.

I wonder if Carl also sneaks in on my laptop, plays with my online games [00:01:00] and messes up my scores!

Rhi: You're totally right. What about your pictures or your diary. Or your duck movies!

Ted: Yeah. I would really hate to lose those! How can I make sure I don't lose any of my precious stuff on my computer?

Rhi: I know exactly how to keep your photos and things you do on your phone, tablet or computer, safe and secure, even from Carl.

Ted: You do?

Rhi: Yep. I'm going to show you how to keep your information safe by creating good, strong passwords. They're a great way to stop other people from getting into our digital stuff when we don't want them to.

Ted: I'm totally into that. But what do you mean by digital stuff?

Rhi: Well, you [00:02:00] know, like the photos and music and messages and games on our devices, like my tablet. I've been using it for video calls with my teachers and friends from school. But from home.

Ted: Um, my dad lets me use his phone or tablet sometimes to play games, and I know he has a password to unlock the screen.

Rhi: Phone or tablet huh? That gives me an idea. Hey, Ted, I dare you...

Ted: To what?

Rhi: I dare you to find a bunch of digital devices around your house. Ready, and go!

Both Rhi and Ted: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5!

Ted: Wait, wait!

Rhi: [00:03:00] What happened? Are you OK?

Ted: Yes. I win! I touched our home alarm. That needs a long code to lock and unlock too.

Rhi: OK OK - you win! Hmm... So do you use a special word for your password?

Ted: I sure do. It's something I'll never forget. My dog's name. Tucker. I always use Tucker.

Rhi: Oh, don't tell me! You never tell anyone your password.

Ted: But you are my best friend. Best friends tell each other everything.

Rhi: Not everything. Passwords are to make sure only you can access your devices and your important information. I mean, my stepmom lets me play on her phone, but she doesn't tell me her password. And she's my stepmom!

Ted: Yes, Tucker. [00:04:00] He's the best dog in the world. T...U...C..

Rhi: No no no! The best passwords are more than just one word. Let's make a new password that only you will know, we can do this together.

Ted: But if we're making a password together, how is it that only I'll know what it is?

Rhi: Because I've got...this! Okay. Ted, do you have a piece of paper and a pen?

Ted: Yes. And yes, I sure do.

Rhi: Okay. We'll make the first-go a test so I can show you how to make your strong password, so you can actually tell me this one. Okay?

Ted: Okay. Yep!

Rhi: Then once I've shown you how to do it, you can make your own super secret special password. You ready?

Ted: Yes. YES!

Rhi: Okay. First, we need a word. It could be your favorite animal.

Ted: Cat.

Rhi: Your favorite toy.

Ted: Soccer ball.[00:05:00]

Rhi: Maybe your favorite color?

Ted: Orange.

Rhi: Ooh, your favorite dessert ?

Ted: Ice cream.

Rhi: Or, your favorite day of the week? Let's go with that one.

Ted: Hmm. All right. Next.

Rhi: Okay. Next we need a number. Like how many siblings do you have?

Ted: One.

Rhi: The year you were born?

Ted: Mmm...Last year.

Rhi: Oh, your favorite three digit number?

Ted: Seven.

Rhi: How many pets do you have?

Ted: One.

Rhi: Ooh, this is a good one. How many doors do you have in your house?

Ted: Hmm. Hang on! [00:06:00]

Rhi: See? Who'd guess that password!

Ted: Wow. I never would've thought of that one, but how am I going to remember? How can I remember the order of questions and make different passwords for different devices? Aarrggghhh!

Rhi: It's not that hard. Just pin these to your wardrobe. Everyone can see the questions, but not your answers. And the password is still super secret.

Ted: Rhi, you are a genius. Secret mode. Bing!

Rhi: My dad said that phones, computers, and tablets allow access to a lot of important information like bank details, phone numbers, and emails. [00:07:00] So we have to keep our devices safe and secure with passwords.

Ted: And, I can make a strong password by using letters and numbers, altogether. Cool.

Rhi: And remember, never share your password with anyone and if they ask for it, you should definitely tell a trusted adult.

Ted: Okay...Yep. I've got it. It's locked in!

Rhi: Great. Okay. So Ted, have you figured out your new super secret password?

Ted: Yes, it is Wednesday.

Rhi: No no no no no! Stop, stop, STOP!

Ted: Oh, yeah...yeah..yeah...oopsie!

Rhi: Well, have fun building your super secret password and don't tell it to anyone!

Ted: Okay, cool...got it! See you later.

Rhi: Bye!
